Fatal Attraction (1987) established itself as one of American cinema's most controversial films. This book surveys the film's formal features and its ideological impact, paying special attention to its signature mix of sexuality, fear, and family values. It examines the formal techniques the film employs to create suspense, such as turning ordinary household objects into agents of terror. It considers the film's mixed-genre status as a thriller, melodrama, horror picture, and film noir. It offers an explanation and analysis of the cultural impact of the film, especially due to its treatment of single career women. It also investigates the film's handling of extramarital sexuality, pregnancy, birth control, and AIDS and discusses the film's lasting role in shaping American gender politics.

the Network, connected only by radio and laser. Since the time of the seeds, nothing but information has traveled between the stars. Now a starship, The Child of Ambition, is changing that. Her first mission: to explore the dark worlds, the ones that failed. Kali Hakoian, pilot-astronaut and war hero, thought landing on the super-Earth of Keto would be routine. The emptiest seed world—its global ocean matted with algae and crawling with hurricanes—hides the oldest human ruins. Her crew of scientists: a dreamer, a believer, and a retired assassin. Their hypothesis—self-termination of the seed base. But when an act of sabotage strands her in the path of a superstorm, she's forced to escape with the man she trusts the least. They may never find out what happened to the settlers—unless it

If you see this book, believe that you're meant to buy it. You have attracted it into your experience. Out of millions of books on Amazon somehow it's made its way to you. Imagine this...you're at your neighborhood mini mart or gas station buying snacks and soda, and the cashier says to you, "Hey, the jackpot is over six hundred millions and no one has hit it yet. Would you like to buy some tickets?" What would you do? You'd probably go, "Heck, okay give me $15 bucks worth of lotto I'ma try my luck tonight. It's only $15 bucks. Win or lose, it's still worth the shot." How is buying this $15 book similar to buying $15 lotto tickets? What do they have in common? Absolutely nothing. You can calculate your chance of getting struck by lightning and realize you will never see your $15 lotto money again. But with this book, though I can't guarantee six hundred million dollars, I can guarantee something very similar to it, or better. This book (Book #1) in the Femme Fatale series was written with one purpose only - to get you in this space where you are so abundant of attention from men. And I promise the magic will start happening the moment you read the first page. It's going to be a fun ride. This is only the beginning. Good luck!

discovered, and discusses our current understanding of their role in cosmic evolution. This second edition covers new discoveries made in the past decade, including definitive proof of a black hole at the center of the Milky Way, evidence that the expansion of the Universe is accelerating, and the new appreciation of the connection between black holes and galaxy formation. There are entirely new chapters on gamma-ray bursts and cosmic feedback. Begelman and Rees blend theoretical arguments with observational results to demonstrate how both approaches contributed to this subject. Clear illustrations and photographs reveal the strange and amazing workings of our universe. There are two kinds of families: the ones we are born into and the ones we create. Walk has never left the coastal California town where he grew up. He may have become the chief of police, but he's still trying to heal the old wound of having given the testimony that sent his best friend, Vincent King, to prison decades before. Now, thirty years later, Vincent is being released. Duchess is a thirteen-year-old self-proclaimed outlaw. Her mother, Star, grew up with Walk and Vincent. Walk is in overdrive trying to protect them, but Vincent and Star seem bent on sliding deeper into self-destruction. Star always burned bright, but recently that light has dimmed, leaving Duchess to parent not only her mother but her five-year-old brother. At school the other kids make fun of Duchess—her clothes are torn, her hair a mess. But let them throw their sticks, because she'll throw stones. Rules are for other people. She's just trying to survive and keep her family together. A fortysomething-year-old sheriff and a thirteen-year-old girl may not seem to have a lot in common. But they both have come to expect that people will disappoint you, loved ones will leave you, and if you open your heart it will be broken. So when trouble arrives with Vincent King, Walk and Duchess find they will be unable to do anything but usher it in, arms wide closed. Chris Whitaker has written an extraordinary novel about people who deserve so much more than life serves them. At times devastating, with flashes of humor and hope throughout, it is ultimately an inspiring tale of how the human spirit prevails and how, in the end, love—in all its different guises—wins.

The second edition of volume one of The Broadview Anthology of British Literature includes considerably more of Langland's Piers Plowman than appears in the first edition, and includes for the first time the work of John Gower. Also new to the bound book component of the anthology is the York Crucifixion Play, and additional work by Chaucer. With this volume as with the others, material continues to be added on an ongoing basis to the website component of the anthology.
