From Conferencing Handbook: The New Real Justice Training Manual. Source: (1999) Piper's Press. Taken from a handbook on conferencing, this is an actual script or guide for dialogue that a facilitator can use in a conference with the offender, victim, and related parties.

~~Conference Facilitator's Script - Restorative Justice~~

A Real Justice restorative conference, however, employs a different kind of fixed order. Participants sit in a circle, and the conference facilitator uses the order of speakers defined by the conference script (offender, victim, victim supporter, offender supporter) to ask each person a set of restorative questions (O'Connell, Wachtel, & Wachtel, 1999).

~~Defining Restorative | Restorative Practices~~

Restorative justice is an approach to justice in which one of the responses to a crime is to organize a meeting between the victim and the offender, sometimes with representatives of the wider community. The goal is for them to share their experience of what happened, to discuss who was harmed by the crime and how, and to create a consensus for what the offender can do to repair the harm from ...

~~Restorative Justice - Wikipedia~~

Conferencing emerged in 1989 with the passage of the Children, Young Persons and Their Families Act in New Zealand. The Act established a new means of dealing with juveniles: rather than processing them through the courts with the help of the police and child protective services, the Act gave primary decision-making authority to the family of the youth offender to decide, with the input of the ...
