Hip and Knee Book

There are many ligamentous attachments that add to the stability of your hip. There are also many muscular attachments around the hips that help control the motion of the joint and your leg. One muscle group around your hips that is receiving much scrutiny as a cause of knee pain is the gluteus muscle group, namely the gluteus medius. 2. The gluteus medius helps to abduct your hip and thigh, which means that it pulls your leg out to your side.
