When I was a very young child (circa 1960), one of the first books I was given was a 1930 edition of Watty Piper's The Little Engine That Could. I've loved trains since I was a kid and I'm convinced this little tome was an early contribution to what's become an obsession. It would be several years before I realized there is more than one version of the classic children's story.

The Little Engine That Could informs children about optimism and effort, that a little locomotive could achieve what others disdained. This again is the mindset required for Dunedin Railways, the council and everyone else involved — just as it was 30 years ago. The city needs to assert “I think I can, I think I can”.
